

Faubus Won't Testify in Bombing Case

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus told the judge in a Negro's bombing trial today that he would not honor a subpoena to testify.

Faubus accepted a subpoena served on him last week. He was summoned as a witness in the trial of Maceo Antonio Binns Jr., 31, one of two Negroes charged with bombing the home of Carlotta Walls Feb. 9.

The Walls girl was a senior at Integrated Central High School at the time of the bombing, which caused minor damage but no injuries.

Binns' attorney wanted to question Faubus about a remark the governor made soon after the blast.

Faubus told newsmen he possessed information the police were advised "that a $50 payoff was involved."

The defense counsel argued that Binns couldn't get a fair trial because of this statement, in which Faubus never elaborated.

The other Negro charged in the blast, 17-year-old Herbert Odell Monts, was convicted May 19 and sentenced to five years in prison.

Faubus telephoned his refusal to honor the subpoena to Pulaski Circuit Judge William J. Kirby before trial of Binns started.

Later, the governor sent a letter explaining his position.

The letter advised Pulaski Circuit Clerk Robert McNair that Faubus had "always taken the position that the chief executive of Arkansas is not subject to subpoenas... if a chief executive were amenable to subpoenas he could be so harassed that it would be impossible for him to fulfill the functions of his office."

Faubus added: "For this reason, together with the fact that I have no information that is not general knowledge in this case, I have determined not to appear in response to this subpoena."

The governor said he meant no disrespect to the courts or to Kirby in his refusal to appear.

During the 1957 integration controversy, Faubus once rejected a federal court subpoena.

After the trial began, Kirby overruled four defense motions to quash charges against Binns for various reasons, clearing the way for selection of a jury.

Heavy Selling in June Soybeans

CHICAGO (AP)—The heaviest selling pressure in a week hit July soybean futures today and the price at times was within a cent of the season's low.

The market generally trended toward weakness although wheat and corn held a few small plus signs on a mixed range in the early afternoon. Rye was off major fractions in spots.

The weakness in soybean was described as outright liquidation following report that fairly large quantities redeemed from the government loan within the past two weeks are being sold into commercial channels.

Car lot receipts were estimated at wheat 3 cars, corn 60, oats 7, rye none, barley 3 and soybeans 1.

Jap Students Threatening a Sitdown

By JAMES CARY

TOKYO (AP)—Radical students today threatened a sit-down strike on the runways of Tokyo's International Airport June 19 in an effort to block the arrival of President Eisenhower for a four-day state visit.

A spokesman for a pro-Communist faction of the Zengakuren student Federation said the runway sit-down might be employed "depending on the circumstances."

Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi discussed the students' threat at a meeting with the national public safety and army directors and the labor minister. A spokesman said "strong action" would be taken if necessary, including barring all traffic from the airport before the President's arrival.

Kishi and Foreign Minister Aichihiro Fujiyama again adamantly rejected demands from the Socialist and Communist parties, the leftist students and leftist labor unions that Eisenhower's visit be cancelled or postponed as an expression of Japanese opposition to the new U.S.-Japan military security treaty.

"I have no intention of changing the schedule of the President's visit," Kishi reportedly told a Cabinet meeting.

Fujiyama told a news conference any Japanese proposal to suspend Eisenhower's trip "would be a stain on our national honor."

He said it "would damage Japanese prestige all over the world."

Kishi also ordered the government and police forces to take steps to stop leftist demonstrations before the U.S. Embassy. He appealed to newspaper publishers to support the government in its efforts to insure a friendly welcome for the President.

The students' federation said even if it did not stage the airport sit-down, it would bring out 50,000 members on June 19 to demonstrate at the airport and at the U. S. Embassy against Eisenhower's arrival.

The leftist labor federation Shoyu is planning to turn out more thousands wearing black mourning armbands and carrying black flags.

Kishi's Liberal-Democratic party majority in the lower house of Parliament pushed through ratification of the security treaty on May 20 after seven hours of violent physical clashes with the Socialists. The ratification automatically takes effect June 19, the day Eisenhower arrives, unless the upper house approves the treaty earlier or the Socialists can force dissolution of Parliament.

FRENCHMAN'S BAYOU, Ark. (AP)—James Bryan Ryals, 41, of Memphis, was killed yesterday near this northeast Arkansas town when his big tractor-trailer truck failed to make a curve on Highway 61.

Attention was called to the fact that many business firms are sweeping trash into the downtown streets. An ordinance forbids this and the group instructed Chief Jack Brown to enforce the law.

Old Dumping Ground Sold by the City

In a regular meeting last night the Hope City Board of Directors sold the city's old dumping ground passed a couple of ordinances and told the Police Chief to enforce an ordinance which prohibits sweeping trash into the streets.

The 41 acre site of the dumping ground on 18th street west was sold to highest bidder, Horace Samuel, for $1,010. The area hasn't been used by the city for some time.

The group also agreed to build living quarters at Municipal Airport for use by the current management, Southland Aviation. The old warehouse will be converted.

A contract was ordered drawn up with a Little Rock concern for the installation of a small car rink at Fair park for entertainment of children. The contract will call for one year lease and a three year option.

Two ordinances were passed, one involving Sewer Improvement, District 3 and the other abandoning part of a street in Southland Heights. The group named the route involved, McLarty Drive, it being dedicating by the McLarty's.

The go ahead was given on construction of a bathhouse at City park swimming pool which is soon to open.

Picket Lines Virtually Halt All Activities at Bases That Test U.S. Defense Missiles

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Union picket lines virtually halted activity today at bases that test and launch the Atlas—the United States' powerful counterpunch in case of war.

The Atlas, only operational long-range U.S. missile, still could be fired in an emergency from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., the only base with combat-ready Atlas facilities.

But the strike, by a comparatively few key technicians against the Convair division of General Dynamics Corp., stopped or crippled construction of new Atlas launching sites.

The strike was called at midnight Sunday by International Assn. of Machinists. However another 25,000 IAM workers at other plants here which make the big missile voted to go on working because large scale strikes are too costly.

Five bases were idled when many other union workers refused to cross IAM picket lines.

They were:

Vandenberg AFB, whose war-ready pads and gantries are located on a windy mesa and beach 160 miles north of Los Angeles.

Cape Canaveral, Fla., the Atlantic missile range that recently sent an Atlas zooming 9,000 miles to the tip of Africa in a test shot.

Warren AFB Wyo., and Offutt AFB, Neb., where Atlas launch pads are near completion.

Holloman AFB, N.M., where local issues are involved.

The strike—first major work stoppage in the aircraft-missile industry—had serious overtones. A tie-up of a majority of the industry's plants could result if other strikes follow the IAM walk-out.

The union asks a 14-cent hourly wage boost and fringe benefits. Machinists rejected as inadequate Convair's offer of an 11-cent hourly raise and a 3-cent cost of living hike. The wage scale now ranges from $1.79 to $3.40.

Convair, at its San Diego headquarters, said 2 1/2 of a total IAM work force of about 3,600 failed to report for work.

Reports from the bases said up to 3,200 workers were idle. The union said it had no exact figures, but termed the strike "effective."

Both Convair and the IAM stood ready to resume negotiations. Federal Mediator E. Marvin Scanlon called the next bargaining session for 2 p.m. PDT Wednesday.

Officer Shoots Two by Mistake

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A patrolman who shot and killed two bystanders by mistake while trying to stop a street shooting has been charged with homicide.

Patrolman Robert Marinelli, 27, was booked Monday night and released in $300 bail.

The decision to hold Marinelli on homicide charges marked a reversal of policy. Chief Inspector John J. Kelly had said Sunday the Police Department and the district attorney's office felt Marinelli acted properly "in trying to apprehend a man who possibly committed two murders."

Marinelli shot and killed Emanuel Thomas, 35, as Thomas whirled around in a doorway and started to raise his hands, police said. Another bullet killed Louise Jones, 36, who was standing near Thomas.

Wants Heaters on All School Buses

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Cleveland Rep. Raymond Mays says all public school buses should have heaters, even if the state has to foot the bill.

Mays said he will ask the Arkansas Legislative Council Friday to look into the possibility of state aid for school districts which can't afford to install heaters.

He said the lack of heaters on some buses causes discomfort to school children and threatens their health.

Herter Thinks Ike Should Go on With Visit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said today President Eisenhower should go ahead with his plans to visit Japan June 19.

Herter told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that despite demonstrations in Japan against the visit "under existing circumstances, the President's plans ought to remain unchanged."

Herter expressed this view in response to a question from Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa). The secretary told the senators that he would prefer to make any further comment in a closed session.

Herter was before the committee to urge Senate ratification of the new U.S.-Japanese treaty which he said will strengthen the "fabric of international peace and security."

Reports Trip by Lawmakers Expensive

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Robert Chipfield (R-Ill.) and his wife spent $1,358.23 obtained from U.S. embassies during a 10-day study mission to Venezuela, El Salvador and Mexico in 1957, the Knight-News Service said today.

Travel and other expenses raised the trip's total cost to the taxpayers at least to $2,440.02, the account added.

A copyright story by reporters Don Oberdorfer and Walter Pines said details of the trip's expenses came to light because the U.S. embassies in those countries had no counterpart funds in local currencies on hand.

Counterpart funds are foreign currencies normally obtained under foreign aid programs and held by the United States overseas.

The article called the case unusual only because "it provides the public for the first time a picture of how a congressman draws down foreign currency from American embassies and spends it overseas."

Under the mutual security law, congressmen with a letter from their committee chairman can draw on counterpart funds.

"Normally congressmen spending such overseas money have to make only the most sketchy sort of reports on where it went and even those reports, which are often extremely informal, are never made available to the public," the story said.

Instead, the story said, the counterpart spending reports are consolidated by congressional committees before they are published "so no taxpayer can tell what any one lawmaker drew out and expended."

In the case of the Chipfield trip, the story said, the embassies in the three countries bought local currencies with American dollars to give to Chipfield's party, since no counterpart funds were on hand.

billed Congress for the dollars spent, and the House Foreign Affairs Committee, of which Chipfield is a member, paid the bill. Thus the records became available in the House disbursement office, the story said.

The article quoted Chipfield as saying the funds were used "for just normal expenses and some travel. I can't describe exactly. I don't know if there are any bills or receipts any place. I didn't handle the money. Mr. Schupp did that. That's what he was along for."

Franklin Schupp, a committee aide, accompanied Chipfield on the trip. Also along was Herbert Poole, a Boston food broker and old friend of Chipfield. Both Chipfield and Schupp said Poole paid all his own expenses, the story said.

Chipfield was also quoted as saying, "I certainly think there should be an accounting of what funds were spent for and why."

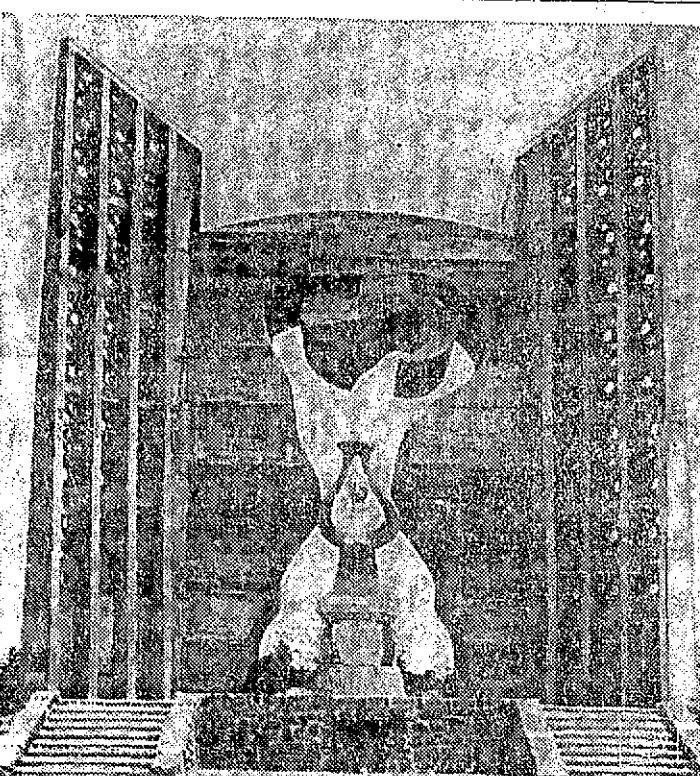

Activities Consolidated

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. intelligence activities will be consolidated as an aftermath of the U-2 spy plane incident, Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) predicted.

Javits, making the forecast Sunday, suggested that the secretary of state be given control of the information-gathering work of the various government agencies.

Javits said the Senate inquiry showed there was a lack of coordination in the administration's handling of the plane incident "rather than anybody's fault."

In the early days, steamboats went up the D'Launelle river as far as Marianna.

Planes Discover Crewman's Body

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—A helicopter, two light planes and a truck Sunday helped find the body of the third crewman of a B-36 supersonic jet bomber that crashed in a violent thunderstorm Saturday night.

The three civilians floated to earth in parachutes but strong winds dragged them over rough terrain battering them to death.

The men, all residents of Fort Worth, Tex., were employees of the Convair division of General Dynamics Corp. which builds the 15-million-dollar plane in Fort Worth.

The plane took off from Kirtland Air Force Base at Albuquerque, N.M., at 4:10 p.m. Saturday and crashed seven minutes before its scheduled landing in Fort Worth at 6:10 p.m.

Cuba, Red China

NEW YORK (AP)—Fidel Castro's regime is getting ready to establish diplomatic ties with Red China, the New York Times said today.

The move would break the solid Latin American front against recognizing Peking and would arouse concern in the United States, which has spearheaded the move to keep the Chinese Communists out of the Western Hemisphere.

Diplomats believe relations with Peking will be established before July 26, anniversary of the 1953 uprising from which Castro's rev-

328 to Play for 91 Places in Nat'l Open

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The big fireworks are at Oklahoma City today when 328 golfers in nine centers shoot for the remaining 91 places in next week's National Open Golf Championship.

Thirty-eight players qualified Monday—at Seattle, Denver, Cincinnati and Mamaroneck, N. Y. The joined 21 exempt entrants in the field of 150 who will tee off in the tournament proper at Cherry Hills Country Club in Englewood, Colo., June 16-18.

Oklahoma City drew special attention today because it is the week's stopping place for the touring pros. There, 66 men, including some of the game's biggest names, will battle for 94 spots.

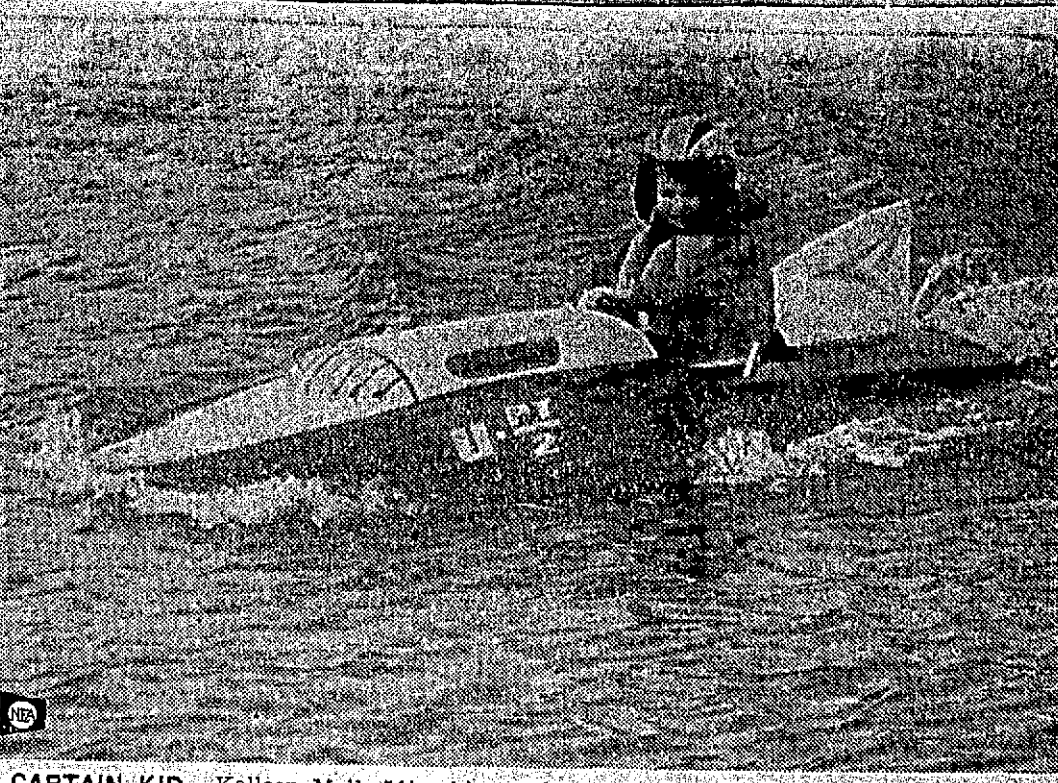

This list includes former champions Julius Boros and Lloyd Mangrum; the two-time amateur king, Charlie Coe; former Masters champions Jack Burke and Art Wall Jr.; and such well-known tourists as Lionel and Jay Hebert, George Bayer, Doug Sanders, Bob Goalby, Paul Harey, Al Bessie, link, Mason Rudolph, Bill Collins, Tom Neipote and Don Fairfield.

Two former champions, Gene Sarazen and Tony Manero, missed out Monday at the Winged Foot Golf Club at Mamaroneck. Sarazen withdrew because of an infected ear. Manero shot 79-77-156, eight above the qualifying break. Included Skee Riegel, former National amateur champion, 151; William Hyndman III of Philadelphia, U.S. Walker Cup ace, 149; and Robert Jones III, some of the immortal Bobby, 150.

Another who missed was Don Essig III of Indianapolis, 1957 public links champion. He lost out at Cincinnati.

Monday's honors were taken by Don Bies, a 22-year-old assistant pro at Seattle whose two rounds of nine-under-par were best of the day; Robert Gardner, a White Plains, N.Y., amateur; Gordon Waldepuhl, a one-eyed teaching pro from Dayton, Ohio, and the veteran Johnny Bulla of Phoenix, Ariz.

Besides Oklahoma City, tests are scheduled today at San Francisco, Chicago, Detroit, Washington, Atlanta, St. Louis, Fort Worth and Rochester, N.Y.

CAPTAIN KID—Kalleen Moll, 5½, skips her hydroplane, U.P. T-2, which translates as Half Pint, on Lake Washington in Seattle. Her dad, John Moll, built the 35-pound, plywood-hull craft powered with a 3½-horsepower chain-saw engine. Wee captain was off and running.

Now They Can't Forget That Oriole Team

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The first week or 10 days of the American League season Baltimore's Orioles were winning with Jim Gentile's bat and a bunch of kid pitchers, and most everyone said, "Forget 'em, it can't last."

Now it's June, the season's almost two months old—and Gentile is still slugging, the kid pitchers are still winning, and the Birds lead by 2½ games.

Gentile, who homered for his first hit in the majors back in 1957 with Brooklyn, hit his seventh of the season and drove in three runs Monday night, backing a six-hit pitching job by Chuck Estrada for a 6-1 victory over Washington. It was the fifth success in seven games for the Orioles and added a half-game to their lead over the idle, second-place Cleveland Indians.

Chicago's third-place White Sox moved within a half-game of the Indians with their fourth straight victory, getting past the New York Yankees 3-2 with an unearned run in the ninth. That was the only other game scheduled in the AL.

In the lone National League game, St. Louis rapped the last-place Philadelphia Phillies 5-2 for right-handed Larry Jackson's sixth straight victory.

Estrada, now 6-1 with his fourth straight victory, had a two-hit shutout until the seventh and finished with a six-hitter.

The White Sox, 4-0 against the Yankees, beat southpaw Whitey Ford (2-4) after being blanked on three singles for seven innings. Luis Aparicio's third single broke a 2-2 tie in the ninth after two errors by third baseman Gil McDougald and shortstop Lollar's third hit loaded the bases. Gerry Staley (6-1) won his third in a row, in relief of Billy Pierce, although blowing a 2-1 lead when Roger Maris hit his 15th home run, tops in the majors, in the eighth inning. Dick Donovan saved it in the ninth.

The Cardinals closed within a half-game of fourth-place Cincinnati by coming from behind against rookie Chris Short (2-1) making his first start. They scored an unearned run in the fourth, then won it with two in the fifth on Ken Boyer's infield hit, a walk, Hal Smith's single and a double by Curt Flood.

but on which he has not taken a firm stand recently.

He recalled today that he told a labor meeting Sunday that the measure seemed the best solution to Arkansas' integration troubles when it was drafted and that if conditions have changed so it is no longer needed it can be defeated in November.

He said when the measure was drawn, "we were faced with the threat of abolishing the entire school system."

Faubus said he didn't think federal laws would make the proposed amendment unworkable.

He said the provisions had been tested and that the men who drew the measure knew what they were doing. He didn't elaborate.

Faubus told newsmen they would "be surprised when I tell you who approved of it."

Pressed for elaboration, he only laughed and said, "you already know but I'll tell you later."

Faubus in Defense of No. 52 Action

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus today said that "I have never advocated abolishing the public school system. I am not in favor of that."

He made the comment to newsmen during a discussion of proposed constitutional Amendment No. 52 which would permit closing by local option elections of schools threatened with integration.

Faubus said many school districts weren't threatened with integration.

Faubus' opponents in the governor's race have made an issue of the proposal, which Faubus advocated in the 1959 Legislature.

later today after having squelched a series of thrusts at the Roman Catholic Church in connection with the impending national presidential election.

One by one, four such moves were decisively voted down. The 1½-million-member denomination, however, asserted the right of citizens to inquire into the influences of any candidate's religion on his views regarding public issues.

Obvious backdrop for the spirited discussion was the candidacy of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, a Catholic, for the Democratic presidential nomination, but his name was not mentioned.

On a related matter, delegates commented Protestants and other Americans united for the Separation of Church and State for "its vigilance in ferreting out aringements" of the separation principles.

It was specified, however, that the action was "not necessarily a blanket endorsement" of all POAU activity, many of which have been at odds with Roman Catholic practices.

The convention also urged opposition to use of tax funds by private schools or pupil transportation, textbooks, teacher salaries or other purposes.

One pastor, the Rev. Quinton Ivy Warren, R. I., wanted the convention to condemn use of public school buildings by a religious group without rental charges, except in an emergency.

The proposal was defeated. The convention, by a close vote, rejected a declaration avowing an eventual end to a tax-exempt status or church properties. This was proposed by Richard Curtis of Bloomfield, Ind.

On another touchy issue, the convention joined a series of other Protestant denominations in supporting non-violent student hit-ins and other demonstrations against racial segregation.

Raymond Bowdon, 30, was burned fatally while trying unsuccessfully to pull his father, E. Foster Bowdon, 65, from a burning truck cab.

The men both of Jonesboro worked as a trucker team.

State Trooper Buren Jackson said the trucks were heading north on Highway 63. The son apparently stopped his truck for a traffic light and the father's truck rammed it from behind.

Each truck had a tank filled with insect spray containing kerosene. A motorist said flames shot 100 feet high after the impact.

The father was trapped in the cab of his truck. Raymond Bowdon tried to pull him out but his own clothing ignited and he was driven back by flames.

The son died later at a Jonesboro hospital.

Raps U. S. as Disarmament Talks Open

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

GENEVA (AP)—Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin opened a new round of East-West disarmament talks today with a blast against "aggressive circles" in the United States. He alleged these Americans sabotaged the Paris summit meeting and sought to prevent peaceful coexistence.

"Aggressive forces continue to conduct their subversive actions against peace and the security of peoples and make even more urgent and imperative the solution of the disarmament problem," Zorin said.

A Western official said Zorin echoed earlier charges by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev — without Khrushchev's vehemence — U. S. Ambassador Frederick M. Eaton refused to be drawn into debate on the summit breakdown.

"Our task here is to get on with the discussion of measures for disarmament, and I suggest you do this," he told Zorin.

Despite Zorin's remarks, British Minister of State David Ormsby-Gore told newsmen the 10-nation conference resumed in a restrained and moderate atmosphere after its six-week recess. Zorin presented and commented on the revised Soviet disarmament plan, announced by Khrushchev June 3.

Eaton said the U. S. government is subjecting the new Khrushchev plan to a serious and thorough analysis.

Western officials see little hope of agreement if the Soviets insist as rigidly on the main provisions of the new plan as they did on Khrushchev's first proposal.

The Soviets emphasized in their new version that they were adopting proposals advanced by other powers—notable France—that a beginning should be made in wiping out the means of delivering nuclear weapons.

U. S. officials expressed encouragement over apparent recognition by the Soviets of the need after disarmament for an international peace force, which the West insists is necessary. The Soviets hedged, however, by providing for control of such a force by the Security Council, where the big power veto operates.

The Western plan, cold-shouldered by the Soviets before the talks adjourned in April, called for carefully controlled disarmament in three gradual stages. A

Fescue Good for Grazing

E. M. McWilliams SHOULDER DEEP IN KENTUCKY Fescue.

Mr. McWilliams seeded this field to Ladino Clover and Fescue nine years ago. The Ladino is knee high overtopped by Fescue. He has grazed this field the year round until last year. His cattle stayed fat but he hadn't realized the forage that was being produced until he stopped grazing.

Fescue grass is adapted to wet natural fertile soil. Should be seeded in the fall of the year on a well prepared seed bed. If allowed to grow through the summer months without grazing it will furnish a lot of late fall, winter and early spring grazing (the time all summer grasses are gone).

Every stockman should plan some green forage for winter grazing. Dr. Royston said, "Since I have grown fescue, oats and rye grass for winter grazing I have not had pink-eye in my herd. The green forage gives plenty of vitamin A that wards off pink-eye."

Fescue will not do well on dry soils or stand a lot of grazing in summer months. It needs to have a foot of growth when the frost falls so as to have the growing points covered to keep.

promised anything, nor have been threatened."

The note was sent after a welter of rumors about Eichmann's capture prompted Argentine President Arturo Frondizi to order an investigation and to ask Israeli Ambassador Arlo Levavi for a full explanation.

The note gave this sketchy account of events leading up to Eichmann's capture:

When World War II ended a band of Jewish volunteers began a search for Eichmann that extended through Europe, the Middle East and finally Latin America.

Some months ago the pursuers learned that Eichmann now was living in Argentina.

The searchers ferreted out Eichmann's address learned his alias and closed in.

DOROTHY DIX

Can This Be Love?

Dear Dorothy Dix:

I met a swell guy at a carnival four years ago. We went steady until he started drinking. I asked him to stop. He did for two weeks, then got drunk and asked for his "steady" ring back. Some time later I heard he married. I cried so much I had a fever for three days.

A year passed. My oldest brother brought another boy to our house. That summer we got engaged and were very happy till he got into trouble and went to prison. I couldn't sleep nights for worrying. We write to each other. I've seen him twice. He'll be coming home this year and wants to marry me. I'll be 18 soon and he 22.

It gets pretty lonely here at home. A couple of months ago my oldest sister, who is 23, took me to a night club. There I met a guy 22. He took us home and has asked me to marry him. He's real nice but has been married before. Should I marry him or wait for the man in prison? I love both—F.E.L.

Dear F.E.L.: You may think you love both men but that isn't love. If it were, there would be only one boy in the whole wide world, as far as you were concerned and you wouldn't raise the question—you'd know. These two were pick-ups; stop-gaps to loneliness. Be more selective. Broaden your horizon by improving appearance and mind. Like attracts like. By being your best self you'll attract only the best. To marry a man with a prison record is asking for trouble, especially since you're not sure you love him.

Dear Dorothy Dix:

I am 14 and in the ninth grade. I find it difficult to make the high grades I used to. My parents just don't understand that my studies are more advanced and therefore harder. They think if you made good once you can do it again. When I make a low grade, they take my privileges away until my next report card, hoping by this method to push education into me. I'm already trying my best. Do you think this fair?—Worried

Dear Worried: The word discipline means "the training of a disciple." So in disciplining you for low grades, your parents are training you and that is right. But this at once involves them as well as you, and if they want their training to be really effective, they should study with you. Friction between you and them is natural at this period of your growth. There are several books on the subject which will help to a better understanding. I am sending you my leaflet listing them. It is called "Sex Education for Teen-agers."

Dear Dorothy Dix:

I am 18 and going with a boy also 18. We deeply love each other and want to get married. But whenever my boy friend gets disgusted at anything he swears. If I try to tell him he doesn't have to swear, he yells at me. After he realizes he has yelled at me, he tells me he is sorry. I know he loves me very much. What should I do?—Want Advice

Dear Want Advice: Reformers never reform. Be positive, not negative. It's the intent, not the words, which count. Appeal to your boy friend's intelligence. Tell him it is to your mutual advantage, since you will soon be married, that he succeed in life. Good manners are a stout rung on the ladder of success. To be well-mannered is to be thoughtful of others. Swearing and yelling are bad-mannered because they show lack of consideration for those around us. Lack of consideration is a form of selfishness. The selfish person has a closed mind and heart. The world will pass him by.

Chapter XX

He opened his eyes to find the moon back again, fiercer than before. He lay flat on his back, with Dorcas crouched beside him. Her horse stood a dozen paces away, reins trailing, and his own was just beyond it. He tried to sit up, and his left shoulder was a stone that had to be lifted, but ones spoken. In prison, after her he managed. "How long have I last letter, he had sometimes won been out?" he asked.

"Not more than 10 minutes," Dorcas said. "I couldn't do much say to each other when that hap with you unconscious. Let's have a look at your shoulder."

He began working out of his night's words. He got his coat off and un-bullioned his shirt and carefully pulled the cloth from the wound. He tried peering at the wound, but it was difficult to see, and he touched it gingerly with his fingertips. The bullet had torn a bad gash where his upper left arm joined to his shoulder, but the lead had apparently passed on. Shock and loss of blood had un-

Dorcas peered, too. "You'll need a pad and tie," she said. She stood up and walked a few paces, putting her back to him. "Look the other way, Ry," she said.

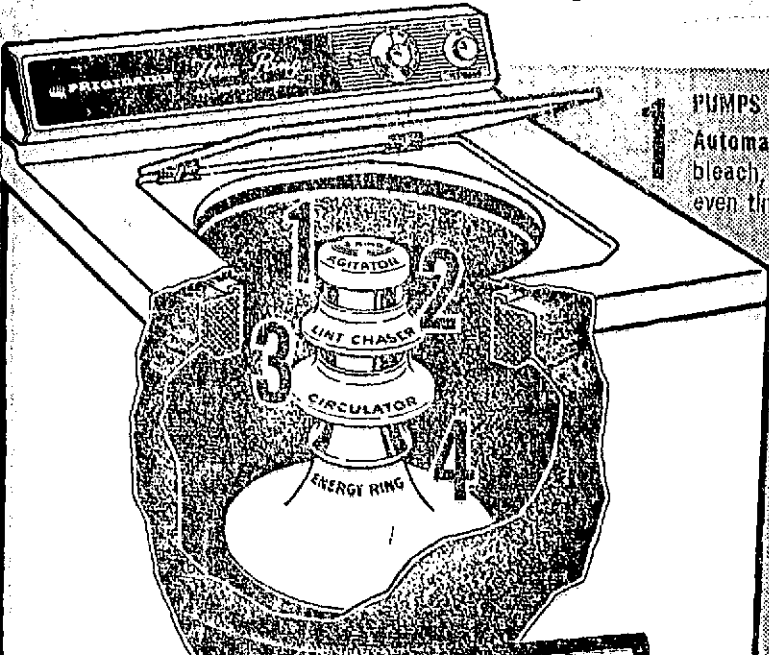

He heard cloth tear, and he guessed that she was ripping strips from an undergarment. She came back and fitted a folded square of cloth against the wound and tied it in place with a long strip which she knotted under his arm pit. He studied her face as she worked. Older, but just as beautiful. A more determined face —the set features of one who knew what she wanted and was going to have it. He remembered last night at the courthouse corner and his urge to call after her and he wondered now if any call of his could ever reach to her.

She stood up, her work finished. "You ran into somebody's gun, Duke's?"

"Sam Tull's," he said. "A couple of miles above here. He's probably on my trail."

"Somebody's coming now," she said, and he had to admire the way she kept her voice so calm.

He saw a man riding hard across the meadow toward them. He struggled to his feet and drew his gun and held it ready, his real fear for Dorcas, caught here with him. Seemed he was constantly bad luck to the Lane sisters. Then he recognized the gaunt body of the rider and he could make out Gully Jordan's, heavy-beaked face. Gully shouted, "Duke! You hurt, boy?"

Buckner put his gun away. "Look closer, Gully," he said.

"Right build — wrong man. Hatchet made the same mistake at the Signal depot last night."

Gully said, "Riley Buckner!"

Whether he was astonished or angry, it was difficult to tell. He looked at Dorcas, hostility in his eyes.

"I guessed you were following me," she said. "Now you're caught up."

"Girl, I thought you'd lead me to Duke," Gully snapped. "I didn't figure it was Ry Buckner you were hunting. Ain't you made up your mind yet which man is your man?"

Dorcas sighed wearily. "I just happened to hit here as he came riding down the road and fell off his horse, Sam Tull used a gun on him."

Gully frowned, looking at Buckner again. "You'd better get to town, to a doctor." He said this grudgingly.

Buckner said stiffly, "I'll make out."

He walked to his horse and swung himself to the saddle.

He heard Gully say to Dorcas, "You can see he ain't likely to make it alone." There was some sort of appeal in that comment and Buckner could sense the hesitancy in Dorcas' attitude.

"Dorcas," he called, and she looked up at him. "If it's the cave where you expect to find Duke, you'd better know that Hatchet is camped in Timmerman Gulch. You'll ever get past them tonight."

"The cave!" Gully said, understanding. "I never thought of the cave!"

Dorcas walked to her horse and mounted. "Dad Jordan is right," she said. "We can't leave you alone. Not wounded and with Sam Tull hunting you."

"Dorcas," he said sharply. "I reckon your place is with Duke. I didn't tell you about Hatchet to stop you, but only to keep you out of trouble." He raised his hand toward his bandaged shoulder. "I had to do that much at least."

She moved her horse up stirrup to stirrup with his. "Maybe I owe you something, too, Ry," she said. "Let's ride."

Gully grunted, climbed to his saddle and brought his horse up to flank Buckner's. With Gully on one side of him and Dorcas on the other, they headed on down the road.

No denying that he was glad for their presence. He had said he could make out alone, but he knew better. The smash of that 45 slug had taken too much out of him, that and the loss of blood, and dizziness swept him at times, and he had to grasp the saddlehorn.

U. S. to Hand Poland Aid Economically

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is about to hand Poland another big economic aid package even though the Poles backed the Soviet Union in denouncing the U2 spy plane incident.

The State Department is going ahead with negotiations for shipments of more American wheat, cotton, fats and oils with every sign the deal will be successfully concluded in a few weeks.

Polish diplomats confidentially expect about 100 million dollars worth of such surplus commodities to help weather a continuing farm crisis aggravated by a prolonged drought.

To encourage Poland to rely less on Moscow, the United States has provided 200 million dollars worth of food, and economic help to the Warsaw regime over the last 10 years.

State Department officials declined to estimate how much aid might be involved in the newest agreement. Talks have been going on for five weeks. Barring an unforeseen blowup, those officials said they should wind up successfully.

Polish and American officials both appear determined not to allow Soviet-American tensions, heated up by the spy plane furor, to spoil the steady improvement in political and economic relations between Warsaw and Washington.
